■ Jan, Feb programs

Learn about “Beads, Beads, Beads” as Annie from Uptown Beads joins us Jan 15. And Dana Pearson will present a program titled simply “Threads” on Feb 19.

■ Tickets with a twist

Advance show tickets are available now, and there's an extra good reason to pick some up this year. The tickets which many of us give as gifts to clients, friends and family, won't cost you anything—unless they are used at the door.

In the past, members have risked advanced tickets going unused, decreasing the incentive for buying them. Now, you can sign out the colorful, numbered tickets, and not pay for them unless they are redeemed. Think of them as a marketing tool to help spread the word and introduce brand new attendees to the Show and its marvelous works of art.

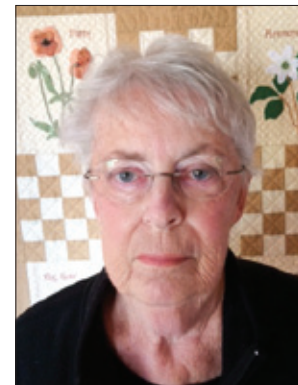

Need a hostess gift or something to slip in a birthday or thank you card, this is the perfect solution. Tickets are $8 (when redeemed), available from Jean Keaveney 509-947-5353 jeankeaveney@gmail.com.

President's Message

Greetings and best wishes to all in this new year. As president for the first time, I must say I have some fear of beginning the learning curve of all I need to know. However, I also know I am surrounded by friends and those who are willing to help in every way, to make this a good year for our guild.

This fall, Aicha and I were selling raffle tickets at the farmer's market and an older gentleman came to our booth, all smiles and told us his wife had won one of our raffle quilts a few years ago and he said “we hung it on a wall and everyone who comes to our home comments on its beauty” — so the things we create with our heads and hands go beyond our guild to be valued and appreciated by people we don't even know.

I love this small saying by Rainer Maria Rilke from a catalog I was browsing through one day: “And now let us welcome the new year, full of things that have never been.” What a positive way to look at what we can do on a personal level, but also as a guild — new quilts, new friends, new ways of doing things, the list can go on and on.

All in a day's play at local Shop Hop

BY LAUREL SUTTON

Did you get cash for fabric at Christmas? Do you have a new quilt on your resolution list? Well you're in luck.

White Bluffs Quilt Museum will sponsor its fourth annual “Local Shop Hop” fundraiser Saturday, Jan 27.

Cooperating quilt and craft shops will offer specials and discounts to passport holders throughout the day. The $5 passports, listing merchants and offers around

White Bluffs organizes fourth annual event

the Tri-Cities, can be purchased at the museum any time after Jan 9, and on the day of the shop hop.

The museum will open at 9 am, so shoppers can fuel up with coffee and pastries before setting out. They can also use the time to organize carpools with new and old friends.

Shoppers and their passports should return to the museum between 4-4:30 for more refreshments, show and tell, and door prize drawings. Passports do not need to be complete to win a prize.

White Bluffs Quilt Museum is located at 294 Torbett Street, Richland.

Briefs

Welcome 2018! Time for setting goals, trying new things and celebrating our accomplishments. Time for some important updates from the Tri-Cities Quilters' Guild.

■ Unanimous support given

In a strong show of support the new budget and revised bylaws were both passed unanimously by a large gathering at the business meeting Dec 2 at the Richland Red Lion Inn. Jean Keaveney did an exceptional job explaining expenditures and financial rationale in the absence of the treasurer. Jean will continue to lend her support in other Guild roles as she steps down as president.

■ Friendship Groups heads-up

Rena Christiansen wants to remind Friendship Groups to contact her regarding updating their information, if they have not already done so. A feature on Friendship Groups is planned in the coming months.

■ Woven, spun art on display

Desert Fiber Artists (weavers and spinners) and the White Bluffs "Surface Design" friendship group will display and sell some of their items at the museum beginning in January.

■ Next Quilt Show meeting set

Next Show meeting: Sunday, Jan 14 at White Bluffs Museum 2-4 pm. Everyone is invited. More show info on pages 8-9.

■ Show pins!

Special pins were designed this year to mark our 35th annual show, which is just over two months away.

Though the pins were more expensive to make, the cost is still just $6. Don't wait, get yours now and wear them proudly to help the guild get the word out about our crowning annual event. Pins are available from Jean Keaveney and Jo Mathias.

■ Membership

Thank you to those members who have submitted their annual dues for 2018. The guild encourages everyone to renew in January instead of waiting for the March quilt show.

■ 2019 raffle quilt selected

Jean Keaveney reported a new quilt for 2019 is tentatively selected. A quilt made by Mark Palmer was chosen as first choice if it does not sell at the guild's January display at Allied Arts. If it should sell then a backup quilt will be selected from a Friendship Group.

Please send corrections, ideas, feedback to Carol O'Callaghan at oc.carol@gmail.com or call or text her at 509-289-9065.

And the winners were...

Newsletter Block: “Easy Peasy Gingham”

“Rail” Variation • From Kathy Kaser-Nichols

CUTTING IINSTRUCTIONS:

White Sashing: two 2.5” x 8.5”

Gingham: one 4.5” x 8.5”

Unfinished squares are 8.5” squares. Photo at right shows the “rail” setting of two blocks.

This is a simple block to relax with during our busy quilt-show-prep time, using white sashing with ¼” gingham. It is a good one for community service quilts: it can be made with dark colored sashings and very large prints, or as an “I Spy.”

- Sew one sashing to one long side of the gingham and the other strip to the other side of the gingham.
- Press to the center with a medium iron.
- Fabrics may contain synthetics.

Spring Retreat will take quilters to Cove, OR

Reserve a space in your new year for the 2018 Spring Retreat. The retreat will be at Cove, Oregon Tuesday-Saturday May 8-12. Sign-up registrations will be available in the March/April newsletter.

For more information, contact Ginny Coffman at ginnycoff@gmail.com.

TCQG quilts featured at Allied Arts

BY KAREN BRUN

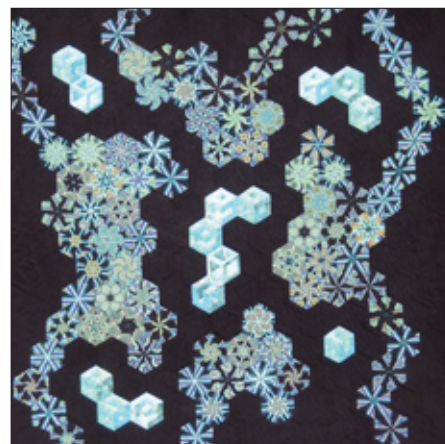

The Tri-City Quilters' Guild is the January "featured artist" at

Raffle quilt will be among show pieces

Allied Arts gallery. TCQG members will display their quilts and 3D fiber art forms in an exhibit from Jan 2-26. Members are encouraged to attend an artists' reception Jan 7, from 1-3 pm.

The quilts will range from king to crib-size bed quilts, artistic wall hangings and miniature quilts. The 3D fiber art may include bowls and vases. Quilts specially designed for table tops and table runners will run from festive to everyday items. Many wall hangings will include beading and painting. There will be traditional quilts to cuddle up in on the sofa and striking modern quilts intended to hang and inspire as fine art.

The 2018 raffle quilt will be prominently displayed and tickets can be purchased for $1 each. This year's award-winning quilt is titled "Falling into Place" and is based on Judy Neimeyer's Bali Wedding Star. The quilt is made from 100% cotton fabric purchased by TCQG, is sandwiched with wool batting, and measures 105" x 91". The machine quilting was done by Ginny Hildreth, owner of Discount Vac, Sew & Fabrics in downtown Kennewick. The quilt won 3rd place for bed quilts at the 2015 Home Machine Quilting Show and was juried into the 2015 Machine Quilters Exposition. Drawing for the quilt will be held March 24, at the TCQG's annual quilt show at Three Rivers Convention Center in Kennewick.

The Guild will again display quilts of all sizes, traditional and modern, for beds, walls and tables, at Allied Arts' annual January Show. Many of the exhibits will be for sale. The raffle quilt is shown at top left.

Proceeds from the raffle will help purchase fabric and batting for members to make community service quilts for local agencies such as Habitat for Humanity, the Red Cross, and the Union Gospel Mission.

The gallery is located at 89 Lee Blvd in Richland.

Ready, Set, Register!

BY LAUREL SUTTON

Online registration for the quilt show is now live on the guild's long-awaited new state-of-the-art website! Kudos to Cynthia Ewer for using her geek-expertise on our behalf. And props to us for patience.

Message from the Chair

BY ELAINE BROUILLARD

Great news: Cheryl Sunderland has agreed to be next year's show chair. I'm delighted to have a new BFF!

All the Chair positions have been filled. Expect to be tapped by a chair asking for Show assistance; it takes many hands, hearts and minds to pull off such a big event smoothly.

Continue working on your Challenge, OCD, or Obvious Circle Design. And do attend the TCQG Allied Arts January Exhibit, chaired by Cheryl Sunderland.

I look forward to our next planning session! (See details above.)

The registration form, which underwent a major revision last year, has proved to be marvelously versatile, so it has been updated only.

There is a new note by the size boxes: measure to the nearest whole inch and enter numerals only (no fractions, decimals or ' (foot) or " (inch) marks ... they upset the software).

As you decide about your Category, read down the left column, then the right; check the first one that applies.

If your friendship group completed a challenge, whether it is one piece or several, this is where it goes: check the box and enter your group's name.

If you made a quilt from a Laurie Shifrin pattern, check the box and enter Guest Artist.

If you made a Quilt of Valor, check the box and enter QOV.

If you made a miniature quilt or a quilt with blocks smaller than 6.5 inches, check the box and enter Small World.

If you put a price on your quilt, remember that you are not a big box store: you bought your tools and materials at retail prices, and you spent time putting them together (and more time honing your skills). Do not underestimate the worth of all that.

And PLEASE provide some display information! Your registrar, you know, was an English major, and she loves a juicy detail; she may email or phone you for additional information. Visitors to our show really DO read our tags!

Deadline for paper entries is Monday Feb 12; for online entries, Monday Feb 19 (which is a meeting day) so we'll be able to give you one last reminder at the member meetings: the link will go dead at midnight.

"Paper" registration form follows on page 10, however please register on the web page if possible.

Theme Quilt Guidelines

Theme Category: Unfinished

Quilt blocks or printed patterns that persist through guilt — orphan blocks or projects that got buried in the back of a drawer or the bottom of a chest. Get them off your conscience. Finish

At the request of Judy Main and Nansi Bainard, some frame space at the quilt show will be reserved for sewists who work small.

Miniatures, of course, are eligible for inclusion in this collection. So are doll quilts and pot holders. A small art quilt would also qualify.

In addition, Judy is soliciting quilts with blocks that finish 6.5 inches or smaller, especially samplers like Dear Jane, Farmer's Wife, Farmer's Daughter — patterns that require complex, tiny piecing.

There are no minimum or maximum dimensions, just these general guidelines. If you're interested, see "Ready, Set, Register!!" for instructions on completing your entry form.

Special "Small World" exhibit will honor tiny patchwork

what you started in a class. . . .

Theme Category: Unstarted

Quilt blocks or printed patterns that persist because they're enticing — anything on your bucket list of things to try or designs you haven't begun because they're too big or require too many types or colors of fabric or because you feel inadequate or alone. Enlist the company of friends: swap fabrics or blocks or create a collaborative quilt along with others.

Theme Category: Repeated

The quilt blocks or printed patterns that persist through pleasure — these are the designs so rich with possibility that you have re-created them with variations, or so easy or enjoyable to sew that you made them again. (Space requirements might mean that we hang just a photo of your first version next to your new one. )

Collection/Collaboration

As in the past, projects in this category are quilts or other projects made with your group of friends. Patterns by Laurie Shifrin will be entered here under group name "Laurie Shifrin. "

Other Categories

- "Bed and Wall"
- "Junior" for quilters under 15
- "Workshop"
- "Other" (miscellaneous)
- And, of course, the "Guild Challenge"

Splendid!

In a few short minutes, Judy Urrita (right) revealed the accomplishment of many months of work as she shared her "Splendid Sampler" at the November morning meeting. The quilt features 110 completely different blocks—as well as evidence of an impressive stash of fabric. "I'm just proud of myself that I finally finished it!" Judy said. Helping hold the quilt are Sue Connell and Mark Palmer.
